

A QUICK INTRO

Hi — I'm Mike.

Thanks for connecting on LinkedIn. Figured you'd rather see something on a page than three paragraphs in a DM, so here's the short version.

I run a firm called Also Capital. We back founders building hard, technical things that don't get built unless someone is unreasonable enough to try — Hard Tech, mostly. We've made 21 core investments since 2019 and lead Inception rounds with $250K–$2.5M checks out of our $150M+ AUM second fund (we call it AC3). We run concentrated on purpose, which means I actually have time for the people we're involved with — and time to meet people we might end up involved with.

A few of the companies I've backed at Inception. I sit on the board at Varda. Others include K2 Space, Conductor, ShipIn, AnySignal, Float Health, and more.

Where I might be useful

If you're building something — even outside my usual focus areas — I'd love to hear about it. I tend to be most useful around three things: strategy in the very early days, the first five hires, and navigating the technical-and-organizational tradeoffs that come with building from zero. We bet the farm every time we write a check, and we do it at Inception — so I'm happy to be your first believer.

If you're thinking about your next role, same offer. We're laser-focused on the First Five at our portfolio companies, and we care just as much about the first 500. Founding role, early engineering seat, somewhere in between — happy to make warm intros to teams I think you'd fit with.

A few things about me

- Long Island originally. Played D1 baseball at Cornell, where I also got my BS in Industrial & Labor Relations and my MBA at the Johnson School. CFA charterholder.
- Before Also Capital, I co-founded Farther Farms, a Series B food-tech company commercializing novel processing technologies — so I've sat on the founder side of the table too.
- I learned to invest at the Cornell University Investment Office (the endowment) and at Dorm Room Fund, where I wrote my first checks as a student.
- I currently serve on the board of Varda Space Industries.

"Mike and his team were instrumental to my opportunity at Radiant. Unlike others, Mike actually took the time to assess my work and make a personal and specific introduction."

— Dylan Enright, Head of Federal Engagement, Radiant Nuclear

"I distinctly remember feeling a sense of excitement after I got off the phone with Mike for the first time. He was an invaluable resource navigating joining something so early. I wouldn't be where I am today without him."

— Zak Kirstein, CRO, Northwood Space

If any of this resonates, just reply on LinkedIn or shoot me an email at mike@alsocapital.com. Would love to find a time.
